This task type allows you to direct the subject to perform a specific action.

This task type has great utility. It can be used to aid in setup, provide some measure of aftercare, give a subject a brief break in between other sessions, or anything else you'd like a subject to do while completing project sessions. For instance, actions can range from anything as simple as, 'Turn off the lights in the room', to a more complicated set of instructions, such as, 'Turn of the lights in the room, close the door, sit down in a comfortable chair, turn off any other screens, and silence any other devices. Once completed, begin the next session.'

When the subject has completed the task, they will select the 'All done' button and be returned to the Project Details list.

Creating one consists of only two parts:

1. Name of Session - The name displayed on the Project Details list.
2. Enter task to be followed - As it states, this is the action(s) that the subject should perform.
